

Late Filing

Dear FCC Commissioners & Staff:

The rights of the individual are being hammered down by incumbent local telephone operators.

In my area, Verizon provides very poor internet access and charges 3 times what the cable system does. Cable is a monopoly, and we see that no innovation has occurred there either.

Using telephone lines for internet access is technically very stupid, when there is a piece of coaxial cable right next to it with 1000 times the bandwidth.

Ask the baby bells how they plan to stream video or god-forbid voice or telephony over a cheap dsl line. Now, ask Excite how much bandwidth they can provide today.

Please do not create yet another monopoly with no choices.

America has flourished due to competition.

You are not the FTC so don't act like them, please.

And, 3G is a pipedream, it will never work the way they say it will.

You must remember PCS in the early nineties, where the hell is any of that stuff these same operators promised.

Do you all have amnesia?

Jerry Fat
Senior wireless technologist.

Sincerely,

Jerry Fat
2 Executive Way
Fort Lee, NJ 07024